Top Health Stories Today

NHS staff balloted on strike action over pay

Three person IVF plans 'progress' in UK

Other

NHS staff balloted on strike action over pay

NHS staff balloted on strike action over pay BBC

Health unions set date for industrial action ballot over NHS pay Nursing Times

Health unions ballot members on strike action over pay freeze Pulse

Three person IVF plans 'progress' in UK

Three person IVF plans 'progress' in UK BBC

Safety concerns remain over three-person IVF The Guardian

Procedure to create babies with three people's DNA could be legalised in April The Guardian

Three parent babies banned from knowing 'second mothers' The Telegraph

Other

BBC

Dozens placed in quarantine after China plague death

Contact:

Lucy Fagan
Manager
All Party Parliamentary Health Group

Tel: 020 7202 8574
Lucy.fagan
@healthinparliament.org.uk

Emma Paveley
Project Co-ordinator
All Party Parliamentary Health Group

Tel: 020 7202 8577
emma.paveley
@healthinparliament.org.uk
BMJ
NHS must tackle racial discrimination against staff and patients, report says

The Daily Mail
Mothers who have an epidural 'may be less likely to suffer post-natal depression'

NHS limits use of prostate cancer drug: Guidelines mean life-prolonging medicine will not be given to men who have already received another new treatment

Judge rules surgeons can perform forcible hysterectomy on 36-year-old mentally ill woman

The Financial Times
Wanted: IT expertise with a human touch

Apps have wide role in disease management

The Guardian
Rise in bailouts as more hospitals overspend on budgets

HSJ
Health spending sees sharpest rise in current parliament

Local education and training posts at risk in HEE's cost cutting review

Healthwatch warns of the rise of 'super CCGs'

The Independent
Deadly Mers virus 'could now be airborne', warn scientists in study on Saudi Arabian barn

England's poorest will live nine years less than the richest, according to stark new ONS stats

The Nursing Times
One in 10 new mothers 'wait six months before having sex again'

New cancer treatments for NHS

Epidural 'may cut depression risk' after birth, say researchers
'We want to see that our caring workforce has the right skills'

Yorkshire university creates course for returners to nursing

Nurse education and training review launches bid for evidence

Burton should remain in 'special measures', says CQC

__________________________________________

Pulse

GP sues Daily Mail for £200,000 over 'insulting and oppressive' article

Fitness-to-practise process is 'threatening the lives' of doctors, think-tank warns

__________________________________________

The Telegraph

Wine bars and restaurants must comply with new EU rules on allergens

__________________________________________